and helped Bellows explain that his first reaction upon reading the newspaper about the slaying did not necessarily mean that he was still "dug out." He was then accepted.

GRAY ENTERS BRINKLEY

Just before court opened at 10:15 today Mrs. Snyder walked rapidly into the courtroom, a matron at her side. She was dressed once more in black. She took her seat without even so much as a glance at the spectators.

Gray, in the same dark business suit he has worn since the trial started, nonchalantly walked through the gallery with quick short steps, as if eager to reach his seat.

While preparing to go into court today Gray declared, in a statement through his attorney, Samuel Miller, that he held no enmity toward Mrs. Snyder.

"I hold no enmity toward the woman who was accused of this crime," he said. "Nor am I embittered or affected by the publicity that her case has received since the lack of my hand as we sit in court."

The four jolly-looking jurors chosen out of the "big parade" that has passed the jury box since the trial began were in their seats several minutes before Judge Scudder adjourned and called court to order.

NANT AGAINST CHAIR

They are:

1—William E. Young, 38, married, a news agent. He is foreman of the jury.

2—Charles R. McNamee, 50, a landscape gardener, married and with three children.

3—Harry Arnold, 29, a plumber, unmarried.

4—Alfred R. Kramer, 35, a clerk, married with three children.

It was the selection of the jurors, however, and the slow progress made in the selection of the jury, hope was entertained as court opened today that the jury will have been chosen by tomorrow night. Up to the opening of court today, 157 names had been rejected.

MRS. MARGARET GRAY

Mrs. Gray, mother of the accused Henry Judd Gray in Snyder slaying, is a daily attendant at trial in Long Island City.

PEGGY JOYCE SAYS GRAY IS LACKING IN APPEAL

By PEGGY HOPKINS JOYCE

Special Staff Writer, Boston Evening American

Long Island City, N. Y., April 21.

Henry Judd Gray simply hasn't got 'em.

What Mrs. Snyder saw in him is absolutely beyond me.

For my part, I don't understand the thing, I simply can't understand it. As I sit here in the press box I wonder how they could have committed the murder they are accused of.

As a matter of fact I can't see poor Judd Gray's appeal as at all. If he were present at a tea or at dinner where I was, I don't believe I would even be interested enough in him, just from looking at him, to remember him afterward.

I hate to say it, for it makes me almost a traitor to my sex, but I think that Mrs. Snyder was the dominating factor behind that poor, little, weak man. She is a determined woman, all right—she has a square jaw and a rocky chin that indicate she could get almost anything she wanted to do.

What a pity that Ruth Snyder with the will power and the domination that she seems to possess, from a study of her face, didn't use that will power for some good purpose. I think she could have done almost anything she wanted to do.

That, I believe, was why Gray fell for her. He is a "mama's boy" type and from mining around selling corsets to uptight buyers he had a lot of catering and flattery that made him even more of a play type.

When Ruth Snyder was attracted to him he felt a great surge of manhood, and she must have been clever enough to make him believe that he was Napoleon and Sandow and Jack Barnum all rolled into one. If he had 'em' for her, she certainly was the inspiration. He was never born that way!

There's one thing about Gray, though, that I can't forgive. That is his turning against the woman he loved—or so he did. I think he would have had more public sympathy if he had said, "Yes, I loved her. I still love her. I'm sorry she's in this mess with me," and then quit talking.

But when that newspaper report became known it seemed, and seems now, impossible to proceed.

Gallagher in a formal statement last night disclaimed any intention to come into court today and argue against the part of the motion for a mistrial as based upon Mrs. Hoffman having granted the interview, but promptly at the opening of court he launched into a 45-minute address so eloquent as an argument against the motion that when he sat down in conclusion it was not such an appeal. Stanley was taken by surprise and had to have the court reporter read to him Gallagher's final remarks.

GALLAGHER PLEADS.

Gallagher pleaded in a impassioned flight of oratory with the Ford counsel to proceed with the trial with "twelve or ten of four or three jurors."

"When could you get twelve men and women who would be unprejudiced after all this publicity?"

They offered no reply, however, as Gallagher sat down Judge Raymond slowly, solemnly and apparently with deep emotion began the remarks which ended the trial.

'TOMMY' SPECULATIVELY Gazes at First Juror

By NELL BRINKLEY

The trial of Ruth Snyder and Henry Judd Gray has begun.

We sit in an airy, high-ceilinged, spacious courtroom, presided over by a deep-voiced and stately Judge Scudder, the already famous outdoor looking in, and wait two persons who perhaps look longingly at the outdoors when they can and wonder how long it will be that they can do it.

IN THEIR WAY.

Two persons who have brought themselves to that desperate pass of frantic thinking by cold-bloodedness, selfishness in its worst form, for they have made many and people suffer along with themselves by the disregard of the humanly loyalities that better men than these have observed as a law to themselves, changed, for their love affair was a common, poor thing.

Two persons who have been here have murdered a man without defense because it was in their mind.

Do they look any different from other people? That is the first wondering that you have to satisfy. No, they do not; but they do not look any better than they have been.

Mrs. Snyder's lawyer has been said to have observed that he had never, in any case, seen such vicious enmity in the public and press as there has been in this case of his client.

A TRIANGLE FACE.

"Well, and why not?" you think when you have seen this priceless pair. You do not find the whole world against a woman with a good face and a beautiful character who is living as she should with her husband and children.

There is a triangle, a stubborn triangle when it comes to getting juries in this trial, and there is a triangle in Ruth Snyder's face—a triangle of character, coldness, selfishness and cunningness. What she did shows to what a peak these three are given.

The next question that turns over and over is not, "Are they guilty?" We are only the public and do not have to forget their confessions. Not that, but "Will Ruth Snyder offer only light and Henry Judd Gray go to the arms of a dreadful chair for them both?"

She never looks at him nor he at her.

hood, and she must have been clever enough to make him believe that he was Napoleon and Sandow and Jack Barnum all rolled into one. If he had 'em' for her, she certainly was the inspiration. He was never born that way!

DECLARES HE DIDN'T COURT CLERIC'S WIFE

New York, April 21 (A.P.)—Dr. L. Pierce Clark, 56-year-old widower and prominent psychiatrist, today, through his attorney, denied he had stolen the love of Mrs. Constance LaBottaux Sangre, as charged in a $15,000 alimony suit by her husband, the Rev. Carl M. Sangre, Congregational minister and public school teacher at Litchfield, Ct.

Dr. Clark was arrested in his office here yesterday, but was released after posting a $15,000 surety bond.

Mrs. Sangre was a patient of Dr. Clark with the consent of her husband, said Charles H. Strong, counsel for the defendant.

"Dr. Clark did not alienate her affections," Mr. Strong said, "because there was nothing to alienate. The plaintiff himself is responsible for the loss of any affection that may have existed."

The Rev. Mr. Sangre alleges that Dr. Clark saw Mrs. Sangre almost daily that he made love to her that he proposed she divorce her husband and marry him, and that he offered her valuable presents. But his efforts had failed to dissuade Dr. Clark from his alleged attentions to Mrs. Sangre.

The complaint says the Rev. Mr. Sangre and his wife lived happily at Commington, Mass., and Litchfield, Ct., until December, 1923.

FR. DUFFY AIDS HUB DRIVE FOR VETS' CLUB

A grizzled, twinkling-eyed man of the cloth, bearing on his face scars of battle-time shrapnel, lost a kindly hand to the mortgage-fund drive of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Club of Boston today at the Statler Hotel.

Flustered from the hearty greetings given him by former "buddies" with whom he tramped through rain and sleet and mud and blood overseas, and with hand aching from the pumping it received, the Rev. Fr. Francis P. Duffy, front-line chaplain of New York's "Fighting 69th," spoke at the luncheon in aid of the drive.

He arrived a few hours previously and had declined to comment, as "Al" Smith's spiritual adviser, on the New York Governor's reply to Charles C. Marshall, New York lawyer, accepting to say generally the only upshot of the culture of Smith.

On another train from New York, but greeting Fr. Duffy when he alighted from his train from Philadelphia, was Colonel William J. Donovan, who commanded the "Fighting 69th" of the Rainbow Division during the war.

"I should be the last man in the world to comment on that," the priest said. "I advised him in religious parls and the letter itself shows the real spirit and courage of the Governor of New York."

"Politics is not the duty of a Catholic priest and, as priest, they should not mix in politics."

"I was called in by Al Smith to advise him on purely ecclesiastical questions. I have known him for years and have always been his close friend and spiritual adviser."

"No, it would not be ethical or wise for me to speak about the matter one way or the other."

Shifting from the subject of the Smith-Marshall controversy, Fr. Duffy praised Governor Smith and characterized him as "a wonderfully clever and capable man."

MISS DONOVAN HELD GUILTY OF FALSIFYING

Commissioner of Labor and Industries J. L. Lavery today refused to reinstate Miss Mary A. Donovan of Boston to her old position as an inspector in his department.

The decision of the commissioner comes after a public hearing, at which Miss Donovan charged discrimination and lack of enforcement by the department officials of labor laws for the protection of women in industry.

Especially, Miss Donovan was discharged for being "absent from her work without leave" and for making "false and misleading reports to her superiors."

Features of the hearing were the disclosure that the department had had Miss Donovan trailed by a private woman detective, and the refusal of Assistant Commissioner Ethel M. Johnson to take the witness oath from her superior, Commissioner Sweetser.

"I find that the reasons given for the removal from the service are true and that she is guilty," the decision read. "After having her work during working hours without obtaining permission or reporting the same on divers days and dates between Feb. 23 and March 19, and second, of making false and misleading statements of her daily summary of her daily work, including expenses, places inspected and hours of employment on divers days and dates between Feb. 23 and March 19."

"I therefore affirm her removal from the service as an inspector in the Department of Labor and Industries, which took place April 8, 1927."

The only appeal left to Miss Donovan from the decision is to the courts.

Washington, April 21 (U.S.N.S.)—To enable Western livestock producers to widen their Eastern markets, exporters of the Interstate Commerce Commission today recommended that the commission order the railroads to reduce the freight rate on cattle, hogs and sheep from Chicago to New York from 54.5 cents per 100 pounds to 44.5 cents, with prompt payment of the New York taking point to New England territory.

'Girls Must Smoke Up Surplus Tobacco,' Says Vassar Head

Louisville, Ky., April 21 (A.P.)—Dr. Henry Noble MacCracken, president of Vassar College, who addressed the Kentucky Educational Association, was apparently unmoved when approached following his lecture with a report that the athletic association at Vassar had ruled against smoking by girls on athletic teams.

"I have devoted my whole life to an attempt to achieve some idea of what education means. I have striven with no little diligence to discover its relation between education and democracy. I am offended that its newspaper should in face of its purpose question me on a triviality of this kind."

"The matter of whether a girl should smoke appears to me trivial, without direct bearing on the subject of education," Dr. MacCracken said. "Tobacco is one of the country's most important crops. This man can't entirely by the students," he said.

Roger's Discovery

By Homer Banks

PLANS FOR THE MARRIAGE—Rosaland and Manton talked far into the night, discussing plans for their marriage. The millionaire was jubilant, thrilled by his victory. The girl sat pale and tense, nodding numbly to most of Manton's proposals. He urged a hurried wedding. Rosaland, fighting to banish the memory of Roger, agreed.

MANTON OFFERS A TOAST—Once within his apartment Samuel Manton went through a strange metamorphosis. Rosaland would not have recognized this Manton as the man she had promised to marry. He mixed a highball, raising the glass for a toast. "To my wedding," he said. Then he laughed, a hard, artificial laugh.

AN UNEXPECTED VISIT—Roger was not at all certain that Helene had acted wisely in refusing to allow him to introduce Adelaide to Rosaland. Complications of a not too pleasant type, might ensue. Rosaland and Adelaide were two different kinds of girls. After two days, during which he was tormented by doubt when there was no word from the girl, he decided to take the case in his own hands. A telephone call to Helene's studio elicited the information that she was "out." He had hardly hung up the receiver when the office door burst open and Helen entered.

HELENE'S REVELATION—She fought desperately for control. "Something terrible has happened," Helen gasped. "Rosaland is going to marry Sam Manton. Oh, Roger, we must stop it!" She grasped the young attorney by the coat lapels. "There are things about Sam Manton that no one in the world knows except me!" (Continued tomorrow).

NEAR DEATH IN LYNN BLAST

Father Klones, twenty-three, of Wheeler street, Lynn, is in a critical condition at the Lynn Hospital, following explosion of what police alleged was a still in the bathroom of his home.

Klones was blown from the bathroom into the living room, suffering burns and wounds on the face and body.

His wife was singed in the blowup and her cries of "murder, murder," caused Patrolmen Ruth and Coughlin racing up the stairs with drawn revolvers.

Kisses His Wife and 4 Goodbyes, But Fails in Suicide Plot

A trip from police headquarters to the home of Ernest P. Sharp, Winthrop avenue, Revere, today by Motorville Officer Michael DeLoon, former race and stunt driver, probably saved Sharp's life.

Sharp's wife and four children were gathered at the breakfast table when, according to the story told police, he kissed them all farewell and told them he was going to commit suicide with a razor blade. They screaming and neighbors alerted the police. DeLoon arrived just in time to prevent the man from carrying out his design, police said. He had been out of work and depressed.

This Village Is Due For a Dizzy Time Watching Clock!

Hazardville, Conn., April 21 (A.P.)—The annual transfer from eastern standard to daylight saving time next Sunday will be complicated in this village by injection into the situation by a new factor called half time, which is half way between the two and designed as a compromise.

Thus while the outgoing agriculturists will stick to standard time, the churches and stores will operate on daylight saving time, while the mills will adopt the half-way time.

It is predicted that those who attempt to keep themselves in conformity to the different times will have little opportunity for anything else.

CHAPLIN'S WIFE NOW IN LINE FOR ALIMONY

Los Angeles, April 21 (A.P.)—Lita Grey Chaplin's last pursuit of Charlie Chaplin to bring Chaplin under the jurisdiction of the California courts in her suit for divorce has met with success.

The actor accepted service of his wife's complaint and relinquished his personal legal immunity from the California courts in return for an extension of two weeks time in which to file an answer to Mrs. Chaplin's suit. The agreement was embodied in a stipulation by attorneys which was approved by Superior Judge Walter George, granting Chaplin until May 4 to make his answer.

The action of the comedist in placing himself under the control of the California courts, Mrs. Chaplin's attorney said, would make it possible for her to collect any alimony the court may award.

Her attorneys indicated that they would file a new petition for temporary alimony for Mrs. Chaplin and her two children at once.

DR. KOO WARNS OF DANGERS OF DRUGS CHINA 'RED'

Intervention will only hasten China's becoming communistic and bolshevik, Dr. Koo, director of the Chinese Republic, was declared today at the assembly luncheon of the Chamber of Commerce by Dr. T. T. Koo, Chinese statesman.

"Dr. Koo denied, however, that the Nationalist movement is either Red or Communist, and asserted that the Chinese people as a whole do not desire radical theories of social and economic organization."

"Foreign intervention is a futile," he said. "The present Nationalist Government has been gaining vitality and gathering momentum for almost three-quarters of a century."

BACKED BY PEOPLE.

"A government which is supported by its people you can overthrow and overthrow we western nations have done in the past with the Chinese Republic. But the aspirations of an awakened people, numbering 400,000,000, can no more be crushed than you can affect the course of an iceberg by shaking your fist at its face."

"The real question before you is not the protection of American life and property in China. These are in danger only where mobs get out of hand, which is difficult to avoid in any revolution."

"The real question the powers are facing is whether or not they are willing to forgo the privileged position they have gained in China and give her a chance to work out her own problems."

ANXIOUS ABOUT U. S.

"The only way you can keep the privileged position of foreigners in China now is to use military force to crush for a time the national aspirations of the Chinese people."

"This is what some powers would like to do, and they would like to have America join them in this old European game in the East. The Chinese people are watching most anxiously the attitude of the American people on this point."

'WILD BILL,' 15, IN JAIL AGAIN AS 'BAD MAN'

"Wild Bill" Hayes was arrested today.

He is William A. Hayes, fifteen, weight 30 pounds, medium complexion and with a pleasant "old" smile. But today he was arrested, and according to police confessed to as bold a daylight holdup as has been committed in this city in months.

The boy has a record of eleven escapes from the Lyman School. Hayes made a prison for "Wild Bill," and police say he has specialized in chain store "jobs" when free. Last Saturday, according to police, the pleasant youngster walked into a chain store at No. 100 Columbia avenue, where the manager, William Venger, had gone to lunch. Venger returned in time to find the boy behind the counter.

The man behind the gun looked big to his opponent and while Bill's head just about reached above the counter the gun is swung forward. Venger spoke a powerful monosyllabic to the chain store manager. "Wild Bill" walked out with his police say.

He told police today he threw the gun, which he had taken from the manager's drawer, into a drain. Police say he also did a job in a Berkeley street chain store. He smiled when they told him he would be sent to Concord this time.

"And me so young," he chuckled.

Mince Meat Recipe Is Basis of Woman's $350 Suit

Portland, Me., April 21.—Trial for a suit to recover the value of a recipe for mince meat sold together with pails, double boilers and other equipment in its manufacture was begun in the Superior Court, the plaintiff being Blanche E. Doyle and the defendants, Edward J. Moran and John Land of South Portland, and James Murphy of Biddeford. Mrs. Doyle asked for $350.

She walked out with Bill, police say. He told police today he threw the gun, which he had taken from the manager's drawer, into a drain. Police say he also did a job in a Berkeley street chain store. He smiled when they told him he would be sent to Concord this time.

"And me so young," he chuckled.

Sacco-Vanzetti Case Motions Reviewed

The Sacco-Vanzetti case again challenges public attention. In line with its policy of presenting all matters as fully as possible, the Boston Evening American publishes a latest analysis of the trial made by Felix Frankfurter, LL. B., instructor in law at Harvard. In presenting Dr. Frankfurter's analysis, the Boston Evening American in no degree either endorses or sponsors it.

By FELIX FRANKFURTER
CHAPTER XI

These United States government records (on Sacco and Vanzetti as radicals) have not been made available, nor has their absence been accounted for. An appeal to Attorney-General Sargent proved fruitless, although supported by Senator Butler of Massachusetts, requesting that West (agent in charge of United States service, Boston office) "be authorized to talk with (counsel for Sacco and Vanzetti) and to show me whatever documents and correspondence are on file in his office dealing with the investigations made by the Boston agents before, during and after the trial of Sacco and Vanzetti."

The facts upon which this appeal was made stand uncontradicted. The charges that the principal agent of the Department of Justice in Boston and the District Attorney collaborated to secure the conviction of Sacco and Vanzetti is denied neither by the agent nor by the District Attorney.

Instead of making a full disclosure of the facts, the representative of the Commonwealth indulged in litigation against the former officers of the Department of Justice in men who were guilty of a breach of loyalty because they violated the standpoint of the Department of Justice "Do not betray the secrets of your government."

To which Mr. Thompson rightly replied: "What are the secrets which have come to value his own secrets more than it does the lives of its citizens has become a tyrant, a secret, secret and he says you should abstain from touching this verdict of your jury because it is sacred. Would they not have liked to know something about the secret? The case is not hidden by that inadvertent concession. There are, then, secrets to be admitted."

Mr. Justice Thayer found in these circumstances only opportunity to make innocuous against a former officer of the government, well known for his long and honorable service. The verdict of guilty was brought in on July 14, 1927. The exceptions which had been taken to rulings at the trial were made the basis of an application for a new trial, which Judge Thayer refused. Subsequently a great mass of new evidence was unearthed by the defense, and made the subject of other motions for a new trial, all heard before Judge Thayer and all denied by him.

The hearing on the latter motions took place on October 1, 1927, and was the occasion of the entry into the case of William G. Thompson, a powerful advocate long in the traditions of the Massachusetts courts. Mr. Thompson brought to the case not only his great ability as a lawyer, but the strength of his conviction that these two men are innocent and that their trial was not characterized by those high standards which are the pride of Massachusetts.

Some of the motions presented are: 1. That the extreme, and here, in the case of Sacco and Vanzetti, the so-called Proctor motion, for more detailed treatment of the facts. 2. Ripley motion. The former of the jury, Ripley, a former chief of police of Quincy (who as such must have carried great weight with his fellow jurors), after the conviction stated to the defense that he carried in his pocket at the time cartridges of make and calibre similar to some of those put in evidence and that there was discussion between him and other jurors about them.

Presumably comparisons were made between Ripley's cartridges and the exhibits in the trial and inference drawn therefrom. For whatever purpose they were used the introduction of such "evidence" violated the convention of the process of law which insists that all evidence, particularly in a capital case, must be given openly in court.

So as to be put to the test at cross-examination. 3. Daily motion. Daily, an old friend of Ripley's affirmed that he had, a few days before the trial, been told by Ripley at the railroad station. Ripley told him that he was going to serve on the jury in the case of the two "gunners" charged with the murder of the police officers. Daily's saying that he did not believe Sacco and Vanzetti were guilty, Ripley replied, "Damn them they ought to hang anyway." The influence of a man in this frame of mind to serve on a jury needs no comment.

4. Hamilton motion. Hamilton, an expert of three years' experience in the microscopic examination of evidence in criminal cases, who had been called in 1925 homicide case from Maine to Arizona, gave in the form of an affidavit the result of his examination under a compound microscope of the bullet taken from Berardelli's body and the bullet found on Vanzetti's coat, as reported by photographs taken under a microscope. In his opinion minute comparison of scratches on the bullet and the groove in the barrel of Sacco's pistol conclusively disproved the claim of the Commonwealth that it was from Sacco's pistol that the fatal bullet was fired.

5. Gould motion. Gould, who was the business of selling razor paste to employees of factories, gave an affidavit to the following effect: He arrived in South Braintree on April 12, 1926, at about 8 p. m., and found where the shoe employees were told off. Someone told him, "There goes the carpenter now, go low him" and he started to follow. Farmer and Berardelli down the street, when suddenly the shooting began.

An automobile passed him within five feet; he saw a man with a revolver in his hand climb from the back of the front seat on the right-hand side of the driver and that must be a revolver at him and fired, the bullet passing through his coat.

Gould had thus a better view of the man alleged to be Sacco than any witness on either side. He gave his name and address to the police, but was never called upon to testify. When, after the trial, Gould saw Sacco in the prison, he was first astonished in his statement that neither was the man he saw in the case. Judge Thayer's decision denying the Gould motion contains an extraordinary instance of his inaccuracy in matters of fact, which deserves quotation: not as an unique, but as typical. By way of denying the affidavit he remarks that Gould did not see Sacco from April 12, 1926, until November 10, 1927, and yet was able to carry a correct picture of him in his mind all this time—eleven months.

The whole burden of Sacco's affidavit was that the man he saw on April 12, 1926, was not Sacco, and therefore, far from carrying a mental picture of Sacco in his mind for eleven months, he had never seen Sacco from April 12, 1926, until November 10, 1927, and yet was able to carry a correct picture of him in his mind all this time—eleven months.

JUDGE THAYER'S RULING ON GOODRIDGE EVIDENCE

The Boston Evening American is a receipt of so many letters from readers of the Sacco-Vanzetti case asking for information on the new evidence for a new trial, that it has decided to publish in this newspaper for each of its pages.

One of the five motions denied by Judge Thayer of the Superior Court in the case of Sacco and Vanzetti asking for a new trial, was the motion for a new trial on the basis of the evidence of the four states "identifying" witnesses at the trial, was really that of C. Whittier, a man whom the defense claimed committed suicide in his testimony and that he was formerly convicted of law breaking. Goodridge testified that he was with the gunmen when they shot

Madeiras Calm in Transfer; Remarks Fine Weather

Celestino Madero, on his way to the death house in State Prison today, was calm even as he passed through the electric chair chamber.

"It sure is fine weather, wonderful for this time of year," was his only remark.

He was arrested and kept him in jail for two days.

Was this conduct on the part of Mr. Moore performed in the furtherance of public justice or was it a cruel and unjustifiable attempt to scare Goodridge into awaiting to something that was false against the district attorney's office?

There can be no answer. REASONS FOR DENIAL.

If Goodridge stated to the most atrocious invasion of the rights and had signed affidavits to the effect that the District Attorney's office had influenced his testimony at the trial there would have been in all probability another affidavit on file today like others, particularly the Andrews affidavit charging the District Attorney's office with unprofessional conduct.

To the credit of Goodridge this scheme did not succeed. I have tried to look at this conduct of Mr. Moore with a view of finding some justification or excuse for it. I can find none. I attribute it, however, to an over-enthusiastic interest in his client's cause, based upon the fact that belief in the innocence of one's client justifies any means to any desired end.

There is no doubt in regard to his untiring efforts in behalf of his clients and his devotion to their interests, but he has seemed to lose all ideas of the Commonwealth has rights, rights that counsel for the defendants must even recognize and respect. Taking the affidavit as a test, it is perfectly clear that if either party had been prejudiced in their rights, it is not the defendants but rather the Commonwealth. From my finding of facts heretofore set forth, I decline to grant new trials based on the Goodridge motion and the same is herein and hereby denied.

Tomorrow Judge Thayer's decision on another of these motions will be published.

MADEROS GOES TO DEATH HOUSE

say at this time. If anything develops, I will call you and keep you up to my eyes on the Governor's decision.

The newspapers who told the Governor that Madero had been taken to the death house, the Governor appeared interested but refused to comment.

Until the time that he projected himself into the Sacco-Vanzetti case, Madero received only passing notice.

FOR WRENTHAM MURDER.

Madero was convicted of the slaying of James R. Carpenter, 38-year-old Franklin, Mass. resident, in November, 1924, a gang of thugs known as the "Black Legion" up the employees and killed the cashier's clerk.

Carpenter, the aged cashier, raised his hands when told to do so by the hold-up men, but when he inadvertently took a step forward, one of the men, later identified as Madero, fired two shots into his body.

Madero's counsel, following his trial and conviction, applied for a new trial on the ground that the trial judge had failed to properly instruct the jury. The Supreme Court upheld the objections and a new trial was ordered. At the second trial Madero was again found guilty of first degree murder.

During the intervening months, Madero was confined in the Norfolk County Jail at Dedham where Nicola Sacco was a prisoner.

Madero was indicted on September 8 of last year. A short time before he was removed from the Dedham jail to the death house at Charlestown State Prison, Madero made the strange "Sacco-Vanzetti Confession."

In this document Madero declared that he and four other men, whom he refused to name, held up and murdered Paymaster Farmer and his guard in front of the Mattachine shoe factory in South Braintree, in 1920. The confession denied that Sacco and Vanzetti were not members of the gang and were not in the robbery and double killing.

CHANGES HIS STORY

A motion was immediately made for a new trial, based on the confession. Governor Fuller granted a reprieve to Madero and the case was taken into the courts by Sacco and Vanzetti.

"Support the Governor" Writes Courtenay Guild

A letter was received by Governor Fuller's secretary today from Courtenay Guild, brother of the late former Governor Curtis Guild.

"The Governor is being tested," the letter said, "and we must show our brother was at the time of the Tucker trial and deserves our sympathy and support."

A petition signed by 331 students at Mr. Holy College, South Hadley, was received at the Governor's office. The petition calls on the Governor to appoint an impartial commission to study the Sacco-Vanzetti case. Recently majority of the members of the faculty of Mr. Holy College signed a similar petition.

The student petition was circulated by the Student Forum of the college and the signatures numbered more than a third of the student body.

JAMES PLANS 'CONGRESS' FOR SACCO AND VANZETTI

A "congress" of all the witnesses who appeared in the trial of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti is proposed by Henry Holton James, Beacon Hill millionaire, liberal, who has interested himself in behalf of the doomed men.

The Beacon Hill man announced that he would contribute $100 in cash to the cost of the proposed congress.

The purpose is to secure unbiased statements at first hand from the men and women whose testimony resulted in Sacco and Vanzetti being convicted of slaying Paymaster Farmer and his guard in South Braintree seven years ago.

Incidental to the plan for calling the congress, Mr. James, who de-finitely is calling the Congress, yesterday announced that he had no intention of appearing there to answer the complete browbeating against him by Selectman Avery of Braintree.

"Let them come and get me if they want me," said James, who de-finitely is calling the Congress, yesterday announced that he had no intention of appearing there to answer the complete browbeating against him by Selectman Avery of Braintree.

He was arrested for breach of peace and violation of the regulations while he and a draughtman were taking measurements near the scene of the seven-year-old crime. He furnished bail for appearance in Quincy District Court and then de-faulted when the case was called.

"I've been over to New York and have talked this case over with newspapermen and there again they think a congress of witnesses would be an excellent idea," said Mr. James.

"I will endeavor to get all the witnesses who testified in the trial, but in addition we will seek those witnesses who were expressed opportunity to give the whole world an unbiased account of the Sacco and Vanzetti case."

"It will require money to hold such a congress, but the money can be raised by popular subscription throughout the United States. The money part will be easy."

"I am going to go through with this thing and see if it can't be done in the very near future. We haven't much time."

APPEALS FOR AND AGAINST SACCO, VANZETTI POUR IN

There were many letters and telegrams received at the Governor's office today on the Sacco-Vanzetti case.

A resolution adopted by the British Board of Trade asked the Governor to see that the order of the court is carried out.

The Rev. Harold L. Stratton, pastor of the Park Avenue Congregational Church, Arlington Heights, urged Governor Fuller to reverse the entire case.

A petition urging clemency was received from 1130 cigar workers at Tampa, Fla.

The Rev. George A. Gordon, former pastor of the Old South Church, today administered a rebuke to Bishop Lawrence for the letter activity in behalf of Sacco and Vanzetti.

"Injudicious and indeed impudent," was the manner in which Bishop Lawrence for the letter activity in behalf of Sacco and Vanzetti.

"It is with grief I see that

BETTY ALDEN'S SOCIETY COMMENT

Miss Lydia Bullard of New Bedford Becomes Mrs. Charles Weston in Home Wedding Today

TODAY IS THE WEDDING DAY OF MISS LYDIA BULLARD AND CHARLES WESTON, celebrated quietly in the fine old New Bedford residence, in County street, of the bride's mother, Mrs. John T. Bullard. The late Dr. Bullard was the bride's father. Mr. Weston is a Harvard man, 1913, and hails from Cambridge, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Weston. The bride belongs to one of New Bedford's "old families," and belongs also to Boston's smart feminine organizations, the Vincent Club and the Junior League. Mrs. Francis Gray and Mrs. Robert C. Cobb are her sisters.

MISS EDITH BANGS, WHOSE TOWN ADDRESS IS IN BEACON STREET, AT WHOM interests lead her far afield from Boston, is away on one of her trips to a other side. She called out yesterday about the steamship Rochambeau, bound for France, Miss Sarah C. Bradlee, whose town address is likewise in the famous old thoroughfare, is a panger aboard the Rochambeau. Names of interest to Boston on the incoming ship are Mrs. Theodore Burgess of Milton and Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Steinert. Mr. Steinert has been in Paris visiting that musically talented son of his, Alexander L. Steinert, and happily wife, who was Sylvia Curtis. For some time now the Steinerts have been living abroad, where Mr. Steinert studies and composes.

PARIS IS SOON TO CLAIM MISS DELORES DEDONS DE PIERREFU FOR A LONG period. She goes to study in the French capital, and her mother will interior decorating. But a return to Paris is for Miss de Pierrefu but a going back familiar scenes and many friends, for much of her childhood was spent in France. Her father was a war hero and gave his life for France. Miss Delores, a tall handsome girl, who is now Mrs. Joseph Leland, is planning to study in Paris for an entire year, to be well grounded in her chosen work.

THE TIDE OF RETURNING TRAVELERS WILL BRING IN, LATE IN THE SEASON, some interesting members of the Braggiotti family. Herbert Braggiotti with his wife (the former Miss Mary Crocker) are coming home with their small baby, so there'll be a big reunion. Since their marriage "on the high seas" the Herbert Braggiottis have lived in Paris, each studying and perfecting various talents with which they are endowed.

THAT POPULAR "REVENANT," Edith S. Draper, and his new wife find themselves caught up in a round of entertaining in their honor that is very fully climaxed, as to numbers and importance, by the brilliant dinner which has Mrs. Nathaniel Farwell Ayer as its hostess, and the Ayer home in Beacon street for its setting. Mr. and Mrs. Draper, recently back from their European honeymoon, are living for the Spring at Mr. Draper's handsome Hopevale estate. Mrs. Ayer, who is Mr. Draper's cousin through the paternal line, is herself just back (a scant three weeks ago) from a trip over to Paris.

MRS. B. H. BRISTOW DRAPER and Mr. Draper are still in Bermuda. I believe, enjoying life in those ill-fitted islands as the smart set lives in Tucker's Town and for exclusive MIO-Ocean Club and fine golf links. Mr. Draper's Bermuda days to a great extent. The Bristow Drapers, like others of the clan, have a magnificent Hopevale place, which is usually opened early in the season so that the family (there are three boys) may go back and forth at will from the city apartment.

THE QUESTION, "WHAT SHALL I WEAR," TO THE RIDING CLUB shows most diversified answers, and formal broadcloth and white muslin rubbed masculine shoulders often as not with riding tops, while as for the feminine set, they ranged through every conceivable feminine conceit and wore morning, afternoon or evening outfit as they chose. And in the ring, the knot of men wearing formal evening array fitted the picture perfectly. "Vanity Fair" to the contrary, notwithstanding. Indeed, their shining broadcloth and gleaming linen dressed up the scene delightfully, with the judge, Alden Blodgett, topping them all with his "clawhammer," his rakishly-angled top and his boutonniere. It's a definite demonstration of "what the well-dressed man wears" when and where he chooses.

THE AMABLE MR. SAM SHAW IS, SO I AM TOLD, THE POSSESSOR of a stunning new canvas, painted by a master hand and depicting a snappy, spanking four-in-hand and one of his favorite thoroughbreds, with its gay party along and horns tooting. Very few of Mr. Shaw's friends have seen this new possession, just completed as it is, but each fortunate to glimpse it. Mr. Shaw's heart, whose undying interest concerns his horse and handsome thoroughbreds. He is the who has chosen several of his sister's (Miss Elizabeth Shaw) handsome mounts.

THE SPRAGUES, BY THE WAY, ARE PUTTING IN A JOYOUS time in Paris. With an apartment at the smart Hotel Neuront and hosts of friends in the French city, their stay there is one continuous round of telephone calls and social visits. They are sailing homeward late in April, on one of the Homeric's crossings. Miss Sprague, a charming girl, is one of the younger set's prize acquisitions. And she was some time ago a Stepper that has appeared at Riding Club, Chestnut Hill and Norfolk Hunt shows.

MORTUORIUM IN JAPAN TURBULED BY BAKERS

New York, April 21 (A.P.)—A wide open break in Japanese yen occurred in the New York Foreign Exchange market today. The yen closed around 41.25 cents yesterday, but broke 90 points over night to a new low record for the year at 40.35 cents, then rallied slightly as cables indicated possibility of a mortuorum.

London, April 21 (A.P.)—Reuters' Tokyo correspondent says the conference of bankers at Premier Tanaka's residence today to discuss the Japanese financial crisis broke up without decision.

Consequently, he adds, the new government is apparently faced with three choices: First, a special session of the Diet for passage of legislation enabling the Bank of Japan to meet the requirements of banks expecting ruin; second, to resort to some other drastic expedient without delay; and third, to proclaim a mortuorum.

The Bank has suspended for three weeks. The Tokyo has a paid up capital of 1,000,000 yen ($1,000,000) and deposits of 1,000,000 yen ($1,000,000). The Exchange Telegraph reports that the Mott Bank and the Kokoro Bank, both on Kinshu Island, have closed.

HARRY LAUDER'S UNCLE DIES IN WORCESTER

Worcester, April 21 (A.P.)—John MacLennan, 64, an uncle of Sir Harry Lauder, dropped dead in City Hospital today on the eve of his nephew's appearance in the theatre here. Mr. MacLennan was a brother of Sir Harry's mother.

Great crowds at all the vantage points showed enthusiastically, and then the accident marred the ceremonies.

MISS LYDIA LUND

DRIVE SHAFT CRASH CAUSE

It was a broken drive shaft and not a car that caused his car into an electric light pole from a slippery street at Governor square last January, Harry W. Hanson, public accountant of the Hub, proved in Superior Court prior to his acquittal by a jury. Hanson, who was arrested after being taken from his car unconscious and charged with drunkenness and operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor. Experts proved to the jury, however, that the drive shaft had broken, and doctors testified that the accountant's dazed condition was from the shock of the crash and not from any intoxicant.

East winds early today ended the torrid spell in another attempt to reach the half-century record mark of yesterday and it is officially predicted that showers and falling temperatures will cool New England through tonight and tomorrow.

The low mark since midnight was 34 above at 8 o'clock this morning, a drop of eight degrees from the high reached four hours before.

A storm area which has been stagnant for almost ten days in the Southwest slipped into the Ohio Valley after dark and on its passage drove the Weather Men here home his hopes of dropping skies in Greater Boston tonight.

An expansive and intensive low temperature area covers the West and its influence is predicted to be felt here as soon as the Ohio Valley storm passes off to the Arctic coast.

Forecast for Boston and vicinity: Cloudy, with showers tonight and probably Friday; colder tonight and Friday; fresh east to north winds.

When the East was suffering its trying time, the machine from the sweltering heat wave last night the mercury up here, and in the Pacific Northwest was frantically in the 80s and 90s. In the North and Northern Wyoming temperatures fell below zero. Georgetown Lake, Montana, boasted of 18 below with roads under six to fifteen feet of snow.

HOLMES OUSTER ENDORSED BY METHODISTS

Now Dedford, April 21 (A.P.)—The New England Southern conference of the Methodist Church in annual session here today passed a resolution of confidence and appreciation for Mr. Robert L. Roberts, who, as district superintendent, in limited proceedings which led to the dismissal of Guy Willis Holmes as a member of the Methodist ministry.

Mr. Roberts was assailed by counsel for Mr. Holmes when the former presided over an oral in Suffolk County Superior Court early this morning on charges growing out of his alleged relations with a former Boston Methodist minister, The Boston jury disagreed.

Action of the conference today was based on Dr. Herbert A. Upton of Union Church, Fall River, who presented the resolution. His action follows within 24 hours' issuance of a statement by Mr. Holmes in which he said: "I have confidence in the men of the New England Southern Conference and I believe that these men will rectify the wrong that has been done me."

AFRICA CRUISE RETAIN LONG DISTANCE TRAIN

Announcement is made by the International Mercantile Marine Company that it has arranged to co-operate with the American Express Company in the management of a cruise to South American ports and around Africa in the coming winter, employing the Red Star liner Lapland.

Two previous cruises of this character have been operated by the American Express Company in conjunction with the Royal Mail Steam Packet Company, which this year had no tonnage to spare for that particular field.

The cruise of the Lapland will begin at New York January 14, 1928, and will last 100 days.

The itinerary of the two previous cruises around Africa will be followed, with the addition of a call at Madagascar. After calls in the West Indies, the ship will proceed to the following ports: Rio Janeiro, Santos, Montevideo, Buenos Aires, Cape Town, Port Elizabeth, Durban, Mozambique, Madagascar, Zanzibar, Mombasa, Aden, Port Sudan, Port Tewfik (the Canal), Alexandria, Naples, Monaco, Gibraltar, New York.

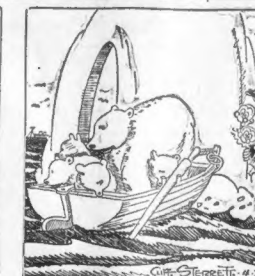

Stops will be arranged to give the passengers time for visits to interior points in Africa.

THE MEDITATIONS OF A WIFE

By HELEN ROWLAND

MOST girls are in a panic when the altar before their hearts and minds are ripe. Most men, these days, are struggling to get off marriage, until they are not only overripe, but have positive begun to rot.

The first is dangerous; but the second is absolutely fatal. There is not one chance in a hundred of finding happiness in marriage if you wait until you are beginning to rot.

And are SET in your ways. Marry while your thoughts and ideas are still fluid and you can adjust yourself to the mold of matrimony. Don't wait if you are a man until you hate to have your hair combed or your collar crumpled, or your thoughts disturbed, or your emotions all stirred up.

Don't wait until your tastes are fixed and your prejudices formed and it settles you to hear a woman

MEDBURY SAYS—

By JOHN P. MEDBURY

Now that the weather is getting milder, millions of moths are back in town picking out their wardrobe for the summer.

MOST of them have been in Palm Beach all winter living on expensive garments and they'll be glad to get back to plain food again.

TUXEDOS may be delicious, but a pair of overalls is more nourishing.

SPOON GOWNs are tempting, but there are twice as many vitamins in a burlap apron.

SOCIETY women in Florida wear such scanty costumes that thousands of moths starved to death.

THERE was a famine in every wardrobe trunk.

THE BOSTON AMERICAN'S PLATFORM FOR BOSTON AND NEW ENGLAND

For BOSTON: 1—Clean streets.
2—Solution of traffic and parking problems.
3—Better pay for honest public service.
4—An airport SECOND TO NONE.
5—Recreation of a MUNICIPAL AUDITORIUM to compare with any in the land; in order that Boston, properly supplied with first-class hotels, may be the premier convention city of the U. S. A.

For NEW ENGLAND: 1—Weld the six States into a unit through the activities of the New England Council, thus creating a community consciousness.
2—Promote intercourse with Central and South America, encouraging New Englanders to "turn to the sea" again.

3—Keeping everlastingly at the job of telling the rest of the country all about our unique advantages as Summer and Winter Playground of the Nation.
4—Foster the property of our industries through (1) greater efficiency in production and (2) the use of modern methods in merchandising.
5—Promote in every way such natural resources as forests, water powers and fisheries.
6—Assist New England agriculture to better marketing methods.

Chiang-Kai-Shek's Head

Wide at the Top, Narrow at the Bottom—Good Sign

This is Chiang-Kai-Shek, leader of the Southern Chinese, who rushed north with restless power, overwhelming European rules and regulations, driving the Northern Chinese before them.

This Chinese leader, who appears sincere in his efforts to prevent killing of Europeans and said he was "pained to see barbed wire defenses protecting Europeans in Shanghai," is an interesting type.

His face and the shape of his head, to the Western eye, do not appear Mongolian. An educated Chinese would probably say, "With lips as with you, the head develops gradually, spreading out at the top, getting narrower at the bottom with increasing intelligence."

"The head of our Chinese sage, Confucius, was not unlike that of your European genius Voltaire as regards the upper part, where the brain resides and the thinking is done."

Chiang's early victories, his extraordinarily swift success, have aroused the usual hostility of those less successful and probably less sincere.

He is a sort of a masculine Joan of Arc in China. He was very useful in the beginning to drive back the Northerners.

He may know in the end how poor Joan of Arc felt after she had driven back the English and saved her ungrateful French king, Charles. She was accused by a French bishop of witchcraft, tried for her life by the British, whom she had beaten; convicted by an ecclesiastical court, turned over to the authorities for punishment, with a recommendation that their punishment be done "without shedding of blood." It was done in exactly THAT way, for Joan of Arc was burned alive on a bonfire. You don't bleed when you are BURNED.

Something similar, but probably more rapid, may happen to Chiang-Kai-Shek, who also reminds you of the Frenchman, Camille Desmoulins, who made the famous revolutionary speech on the little table in the Palais Royal.

Long after Joan of Arc had been burned she was made a saint. Perhaps Chiang will be so kind to Chiang. They also have saints, according to their notions.

The Chief Wants to Know

Question About Fires in Haverhill

"Why do we have fires when business is poor and no fires when business is good?"

Chief William H. Hawkins of the Haverhill Fire Department addressed the question a day or two ago to Massachusetts representatives of fire underwriters, called to Haverhill because the local per capita fire loss—more than $5—is said to be the largest in the country.

Several fire insurance companies have pulled out of the Haverhill field entirely. Others have been considering similar action. "One of the worst risks in the country," the territory was called.

Alderman Levis told the meeting of a piece of property that could be bought for $4,000. One of the banks refused a $3,200 loan on it. It was insured for $10,000.

Chief Hawkins described the destruction of a Summer house. "It was about 60 years old. There was an old 'square' piano, a couple of bed-springs and some other things. There was a fire, and we found that one agent had placed $1,800 on it. We thought that was pretty good, but another agent had $1,000. Altogether, there was $2,800 on that old Summer place."

"Two years ago," the Chief went on to say, "we had a loss here of $400,000 on INSURED property and only about $2,200 on UNINSURED property."

The sentiment of the meeting, attended by representatives of the underwriters, local insurance agents and members of the City Government, appeared to be that the remedy is in the hands of the LOCAL AGENT and must be applied by HIM. One result of the conference is likely to be the establishment of a central Haverhill bureau for the adjustment of fire losses.

"If you don't select SOME method," Mr. C. H. Senter of the Day State Field Club told the agents, "one may be selected for you. It is unfair to the honest manufacturer to ask him to compete with a man who can come in here, start a business and then turn it up. If YOU will co-operate, you can make it hot for those fellows."

But no one answered Chief Hawkins' question. Perhaps there isn't any answer.

Push Them Clouds Away!

KEEP MOUTH SHUT AND GAIN MUCH

By DR. FRANK CRANE

RESERVE the next ten people you pass on the street. Six of them will have their lips parted. They are probably mouth-breathers.

When Nature was manufacturing you she bored two holes in your nose for you to use in breathing. Your mouth was made for eating, drinking and talking, and not to convey the air to your lungs.

The nostrils are especially fitted up with microbe-catchers. The open mouth is a germ-nest.

Breathe through your nose and you are not so liable to catch cold. And you'll be handsomer. You won't look so much like a fish. Or a boob.

Also you will not snore. It is a common mistake to suppose people snore through the nose. They really snore because they do not breathe by the nose. If they would shut the mouth they would cease the noise.

When you get the habit of keeping your mouth shut, it has a most beneficent reflex action upon your soul. You don't talk so much. Talking is a process by which we get into trouble. Keeping the mouth shut is the trick by which we get out of troubles. Sometimes.

General Grant was said to be able to keep his mouth shut in seven languages. A most enviable reputation!

When we talk, people find out how little we know; whereas the Wisest Man said:

"Even a fool is counted wise when he holds his peace."

One of the biggest humbugs I ever knew was elected Mayor of the town because his clever political boss wouldn't allow him to say a word during the campaign.

It's always better to have people wonder what you would say than wonder why you said it.

For this reason, the best means of rendering the rattled-brained disturber harmless, when he has gone crazy over some religious, political, or economic theory, is to hire him a hall. Silence is the most formidable eloquence. It offers nothing to interfere with the bystanders' imagination. They may think you are a whale, if they keep still. They lend you their own wisdom, when they cannot find out yours.

Keeping the mouth shut is most valuable as a business asset. Let the other fellow talk. Then he is taking all the chances. And if you don't say anything at all you won't say anything you'll wish afterwards you hadn't said.

(Copyright, 1927, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

WORDS OF THE WISE MEN

The thing which must be, must be for the best. God help us do our duty and not shrink. And trust life mercy humbly for the rest.

—Owen Meredith.

Fame has no necessary conjunction with praise. It may exist without it.

—Dr. A. A. Dodge.

BOSTON DAY BY DAY

Beware.
MRS. JEAN JARDINE of Allston, an expert singer, is itching to get back to her favorite lakes and streams of New Brunswick where she knows the trout trout await her casts. Miss Jardine dabbles "garden hickie," otherwise known as worms, for bait. She much prefers daintily tied flies from around or Scotland. She is planning on dropping in on her friends at Chatham, N. B., some day soon. And then she trout should beware.

Built "Bone Dry."
If the prohibition amendment to the Constitution is ever repealed or modified to permit sale of intoxicating liquors, the famous "Parker House Inn" might come back. But the present building would have to be reconstructed, for no provision has been made for a bar by the builders. It was built, as you might say, "bone dry."

"No Betting Allowed."
"I bet you" is not apt to become a popular expression on the floor of the BOSTON STOCK EXCHANGE. In the Exchange's constitution, just published and distributed under the name of "BOSTON STOCK EXCHANGE."

Bobbed.
When members of the ADVERTISING CLUB of BOSTON went through razor factory a few days ago they were surprised to note that hundreds of girls were testing the sharpness of blades with human hair. One girl would be inspecting blades with a handful of wavy blonde hair, while the next one would be using brunette strands or possibly tulle. All this hair comes from the heads of American girls. Formerly China supplied the razor factories.
